BARBER SHOP IN THE WEBER CLUB

The following notes are from the Weber club:

A desperate effort was made to have new club home ready for opening on Thanksgiving day, but it was not possible to accomplish this. The club promises, however, that the opening will occur early in December, formal announcement of which will be issued.

The Barbers' union has granted the Weber club a special permit for a barber, who will be able to arrange hours that will suit all.

The regular annual meeting of the club members will occur on Monday evening, January 12th, 1914, at which time officers and directors will be elected, and such other business transacted as may properly come before the meeting.

A committee has been appointed to "put over" a New Year's eve entertainment. It is proposed to make this a very classy affair. A large supply of favors, noise-makers and novelties has been ordered from New York, which, together with cabaret singers and enlarged orchestra, should make it a grand success. The desire is to keep Ogden people at home on this auspicious occasion.

The third edition of the Salt Lake Route folders is being published, and new Ogden pictures and advertisements will appear in this issue. This means a circulation of 195,000 copies in which the Ogden advertisement has appeared during this summer, and numerous inquiries have been received as a result of the advertisement.

BEET GROWERS TO MOVE TO CANADA

(Special To The Standard.)
Chicago, Ill., Dec. 2.—Manufacturers of beet sugar who have been in Chicago to discuss the effect of the tariff bill, pointed to one serious result of the removal of tariff protection, the exodus of beet sugar growers from Colorado to Alberta, Canada.

With beet sugar manufacturers dependent upon beet growing, the discouragement of the growers by the tariff removed caused seven from one beet district to take among them thirteen farmers near Bassano, in Alberta, where they expect the establishment of a sugar factory. A. L. Fryberger, one of these farmers, made a statement regarding his reasons for the removal.

"I moved up to Bassano early this spring," he said, "after nine years in Colorado in beet raising. It was with the idea of making a report to my friends in Colorado that I experimented with beets, to test the suitability of this country for their growth on a commercial scale. I am very much pleased, therefore, to be able to say that the experiment has been entirely satisfactory. This is going to be a great beet raising country. My crop averaged between sixteen and eighteen per cent sugar which is a very high grade. Irrigation is an essential to successful culture. Situated as we are in the eastern section of the C. P. R.'s irrigation system, which has only just been opened for settlement, we have not yet had the water turned on in the ditches; but with the opening of the big Bassano dam next spring, we shall have an abundant supply. The fact that my experiment with beets has been so successful without irrigation should be satisfactory evidence of what can be done with irrigation."

"Beets have been under protection an extremely profitable crop. With proper cultivation, from ten to twelve tons per acre can be grown easily. Indeed, some of the boys who have come up as the result of my recommendation, conservatively estimate their crop from twelve to fifteen tons. Beets add fertility to the soil, too, instead of robbing it; and the tops of the plant have in many parts a commercial value of roughly five dollars per acre for feed."

"The labor problem is the most serious obstacle. There is so much handwork required that the item of labor is very expensive, but, then, on the other hand, consider that in the town I came from in Colorado, which is about the size of Bassano, the factories are distributing approximately $40,000 every fortnight to the farmers, which is a great thing from the economic standpoint.

"The beet harvest is somewhat later than the grain harvest, so that it would not clash with the labor shortage. Beets are practically non-freezing, so that the advent of winter soon after the conclusion of grain threshing does not affect them at all."

DEPUTY ASSESSOR OF WEBER ANSWERS COUNTY BOARD

In the mandamus case of Deputy Assessor J. A. Mathews against Weber county, the plaintiff has demurred to the defendant's answer, setting up that the allegations are immaterial and of no consequence respecting the issues.

The plaintiff claims that a resolution providing for the regulating of the assessor's office has no bearing on the facts at issue and the provision that the board of commissioners had refused to pay deputy assessors' salaries until such time as the assessor should perform more fully the duties of the office, is not material in the case.

WARM TRIBUTE PAID TO TENNIS PLAYERS

The motion was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

WOMEN NEEDED IN REFORM
Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Clarification of municipal life, reform of the schools, jails, poorhouses and saloons and a feminine influence in setting national and international problems—all this was prophesied for Illinois in an address delivered at the annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association tonight by Mrs. Ella S. Stewart of Chicago.

"Without prophesying too much," she said, "we have faith to believe that the torch which has been lighted for Illinois women will illumine some of the dark places of government. It will cleanse and glorify municipal life and guide Illinois children into safer paths."

"We hope that votes for women will immediately institute a day when school houses shall be as sanitary as hospitals, beautiful and well equipped—no more thirty and forty dollars a month teachers, but such salaries as a grateful state should pay its most important servants."

"This section also gives women a vote on the licensing of saloons, and in every such election in Illinois so far there has been a demonstration of the antipathies of the women's vote. They apparently have needed no coaching."

"Illinois women are human. They are not angels, at least not all. They will make some mistakes. Some of them sometimes will be over-zealous. Some will be led and some will be misled. (We inherit from our male relatives.) But at any rate, I dare to prophesy that Illinois towns and cities will soon feel the population of a great moral energy and we dare to covenant with the women of the world who are making their fight for freedom—that we will use our power so well that their victory will be hastened."

WORKS OPENS SENATE FIGHT

Opposes Hetch-Hetchy Water Bill as Useless Debt and Desecration of National Park.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Declaring that the rights to be conferred by the pending Hetch Hetchy bill will be in direct conflict with the water laws of California, and failed to protect the farmers of San Joaquin valley, Senator Works opened the fight in the senate today in opposition to the measure, which proposes a new water supply for San Francisco.

The senator read telegrams from settlers to support his statement that 99 per cent of the irrigators were opposed to the bill.

"I speak for the farmers in these irrigation districts," said Mr. Works. "I speak for thousands of people all over this country who are opposed to the desecration of a great national park; I speak for the city of San Francisco, which would be saddled under the scheme with an enormous and useless debt."

Senator Works declared that after San Francisco had constructed a plant to take 400,000,000 gallons of water each day from the Hetch Hetchy basin, it would find the laws of California would restrict the amount to 161,000,000 gallons or less.

BLOOD FLOWS IN INDIANAPOLIS

The crowd tried to prevent the wagon from moving and then the special officers opened fire. Mason, Ashley, Smith and Sedan fell. Smith was hit by a stray bullet.

A riot call brought an automobile loaded with policemen armed with riot clubs and many mounted policemen.

MEASURE DISPLACEMENT OF WASATCH FAULT PLANE
Monuments are to be placed by the University of Utah under the direction of Prof. Frederick J. Pack, at the ends of the Wasatch fault plane, which has recently been investigated. The monuments will serve the purpose of determining the amount of displacement of the fault plane.

very some time ago stated the total vertical displacement to be 40,000 feet. This, according to Prof. Pack of the geological department of the university, is too large a figure, but the fault to the east is, however, the greatest known. The fault extends from Nephi to Collinston, a distance of 150 miles. The displacement began a considerable time ago and has continued until recently. The seismograph has, until the last 18 months shown well defined shocks, the origin of which lay in the fault plane. There have been no recent disturbances on the seismograph located at the university and these days are the quietest since the instrument was installed.

Preparations have been going on for several months, and now arrangements are being made to place the cement monuments to determine the amount of displacement. Two monuments, which will be plain cement blocks with a copper plate, will be placed in the neighborhood of Beck's Hot Springs; two will be stationed Farmington and two more at the mouth of Little Cottonwood canyon. In a year, the difference in elevation will be determined with the utmost accuracy, and from this Prof. Pack will be able to deduct the displacement through any movements which may have occurred. The unusual fault plane need cause no alarm, for it is natural and very peaceful.

When He Quit.
"Do you recall a funny incident of our parade last year?" asked a suffragist of a newspaper man. The scribbler lied like a gentleman, and said that he saw nothing humorous about the 1912 demonstration. "Well," said the apostle of equal political rights, "we had to hire a few men to carry banners. One of these 'oppressors' picked up a gaudy, took his place in line and started. He was booed and jeered for several blocks, and it finally occurred to him to turn his sign around and look at it. It read: 'Men vote! Why shouldn't we?' He quit right there."—New York Tribune.
